

Operating Systems 1 Lab 4 – DOS Batch File Creation

I had created two text files to make sure I understood the text files and to make sure they are correct. Once I completed that, I created a batch file that will once executed will create a copy of the files I had created into a backup folder. This is executed by typing the files name into the command line which will execute the commands in the batch file.